The First Day I Had My Teeth X-rayed

The day had finally come to have my teeth x-rayed. I didn't know how they were going to do it. It was my first time having my teeth x-rayed. I walked into the dentist office, shivering with a chill coming up my back.

What about the actual X-Ray machine?

I sat in the high chair, waiting with a heavy aprin on. I put the piece of cardboard in my mouth. I was nerves and excited at the same time. It felt like the first time I went to the dentist office.

They moved the x-ray camera to my crotch, my chin, and my mouth, They took 5
x-rays.

I had to wait, about 10 or 11 min. My teeth hurt till

I washed them out with water. I couldn't stand any more cardborad in my mouth.

When it was all over, I jumped out, ran and gave my mom a BIG! bear hug.

I LOVE!!! the dentist!

I got a pencil with ponys on it. It was an exciting day. I was jumping up and down with joy. When we got home I was so spinned

up, I was jumping and shouting with joy. It felt like I've had my ^{teeth} x-rayed before but, it was the very first time. At 6:03, when my dad came home, I told him all about it. He said "You must have had an exciting day." It was an exciting day. It felt like I had a great job done for me. I was so happy and I was a night long.
